Last Friday night some one left open a gate of one of the fields of the farm occupied by Mr. William Myers, a mile or two from town. The cattle came out and strayed to town. They got on the railroad track near Main street just least the first the freight train was about the time the freight train was passing north, and a collision occurred in which the locomotive, as usual, came out best. A steer belonging to Mr. Allen Entler had two legs cut off, and Allen Entler had two legs cut off, and one of Mr. Myers's cows was so badly injured that it had to be killed. The bellowing of the cattle and the other incidents rather effectually broke the night's rest of the people of the neighborhood. Mr. Myers has been playing in hard luck, it seems. About a week ago some one set fire to a stack of straw in one of his fields, and it was burned. Then on Saturday night dogs got after his hogs and killed three of them, besides injuring several others.—Shepherdstown Register.

The Cairo & Kanawha Valley railroad,

The Cairo & Kanawha Valley railroad, a narrow gauge line connecting with the Baltimore & Ohio at Cairo, in this State, claims the distinction of employing the only female railroad engineer in the United States. The lady's name is Miss Ida Hewit, and she is the daughter of Colonel Hewitt, one of the principal stockholders of the road. Miss Ida, who stockholders of the road. Miss Ida, who is a very beautiful and accomplished young woman under twenty years of age, has always had a peculiar fascination for machiner, and fas spent a large portion of her time in the shops of the company. She finally became a machinist of no mean ability, when she undertook the task of running an engine on the road, and her success was so reat that sho is now regularly employed great that she is now regularly employed in that capacity, and makes her daily run with as much regularity as the most veteran engineer. Her engine is said to be a model of neatness and cleanliness, and she rarely misses making schedule time.

A TARIFF TALK:

How an English Luce Manufacturer Views American Protection.

Walter Wilkinson, an English lace manufacturer, was at the Duquesne Hotel yesterday. His firm owns the Anglo-Scotian Mills at Beeston, Notting-

Angio-Scotian lattis at Deeston, Notting-hamshire.

"One result of your tariff law," he said, "will be the transference of a good deal of English capital to this country. What English manufacturers used to make for his country and are now prevented from exporting by the high tariff they will make over here. Take our case. The tariff on lace curtains is 624 per cent ad valorem, when every cour case. The tariff on lace curtains is 62½ per cent ad valorem, when everything is counted in. Recognizing that we could not hold our American trade and pay that duty, we bought a plant in this country, and propose to supply our American trade from it, while still maintaing our English works for the local and foreign trade. The plant we bought in this country is at Tariffville, near Hartford, Conn. We purchased it about three months ago. There is no doubt that other manufacturers who had a large American trade, now lost to them by the prohibitory tariffs, will follow our example and transfer a portion of their capital here. Generally, the McKinley act has not had such a damaging effect on British commerce as it was at first supposed. There are several things that will assist the British manufacturer to keep his trade in this country. First of all there, is the superporty of his work. keep his trade in this country. First of all there is the superiority of his work-manship, which will always be a factor in the consideration of the discriminaing; then his workmen are more tolerant, work for less wages, while being as well off as their better paid American brothers; and the manufacturer can afford to forego a portion of his American profit toward paying the additional duty.

been largely affected by the new tariff, and the Englishman, always jealous of his trade, is, perhaps, not displeased. He should get off better in the fight America is making for her own industries than his cross-channel neighbors. If the American workman was not If the American workman was not quite so intractable as he is he would be the equal in point of producing capacity of any other in the world. As it is, he has been so trained in the matterials of the second of the second of the matterials of the second o ter of his rights and is such a stickler for them that, cost for cost, his work is more expensive than that of his European competitor."

What Shakespeare Might Have Said. To take or not to take: that is the ques Whether 'fis better for a man to suffer The panys and torments of indigestion Or something take, and, in its taking,

Shakespeare didn't say that, but very likely he would have said something similar, if he were living in this nine-teenth century, when so many suffer untold agonies from indigestion. Of course he would have gone on to say that a man must be a fool not to take the "something" which would put an end to the "pangs and torments" spoken of, if he could get it. Now it is a fact that weakened, impoverished blood brings on indigestion, which is the cause of dyspepsia, constipation—a poisoned condition of the whole system—and it is a fact, also, that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will so purify Shakespeare didn't say that, but very and it is a fact, also, that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will so purify the blood and enrich it that all the weakened organs are revitalized and strengthened. It is guaranteed to do this. If it doesn't war means will be If it doesn't, your money will be returned to you.
